

Keep arts in schools .org

An online community for advocates

September 21, 2007

| What's the latest? | Get inspired! | In case you missed it... |

What's the latest?

Arts are a "Capital" idea in Washington, DC

Imagine if all the folks in our nation's capitol worked as a team. Learn how The DC Arts and Humanities Education Collaborative is coordinating the effort to ensure quality arts education for all students in DC public and chartered public schools.

A Voice from a School District's Halls

This year language arts students will be learning through the arts and in the arts. We spoke with Tony Sias, Executive Director of Arts Education of the Cleveland Municipal School District about the Art is Education Initiative. Click here to listen.

Get inspired!

Just a Click Away

New social network badges on the KeepArts homepage have made it effortless to be our friend or join our group on Myspace and Facebook. Also bookmarking us on Del.icio.us and Digg.com is as easy as 1, 2, 3. Click here to connect with us.

In case you missed it...

Authors of Controversial Book Speak Out About the Benefits of Arts Education

An article written by the authors new book due out next month discuss the importance and reasoning for arts education. Click here to read the article.

